Move Joaillerie

Absolute love

An iconic collection by Messika, designed in a couture spirit that combines the extraordinary qualities of the diamond with understated design, this line suits every style and every desire. Valérie Messika constantly reinterprets the three shifting diamonds, which symbolize the love of yesterday, today and tomorrow, to move with the times. A must-have.

The Move Joaillerie collection has taken the Move concept to a new level in a shower of diamonds and signature designs, like the Move bangle with an entirely pavé setting.

Move Noa

A very intimate connection

The link between Valérie Messika and her creations is always deeply intimate. This is particularly true of the Move Noa styles, which are named after her second daughter. A modest dedication to classics which have been sensitively reinterpreted. The Noa rings have an understated elegance and once again combine the purity of naked gold with the power of the three moving diamonds, the signature of the collection.

In a disarray of soft sensuality, the pavé bangles in the Move Noa collection combine the strength of the gold bangle with the delicacy of diamonds.

Move Romane

Sparkling and shining

In 2016, the iconic Move collection was enhanced by the Romane line, a set of jewels whose shimmering bright gold surface counterbalances the lightness of a river of sparkling diamonds. Illuminating and captivating, Romane makes cuffs, rings and bangles shine while combining minimalism with an architectural design.

Strength, lightness and architecture in a geometric and Romanesque design, Romane reinvents the most iconic of styles.

Move Titanium

Lightness and magnetism

The robustness of titanium, the power of the diamond. With a history of innovation, Messika has made its emblematic Move collection available for men.

To accentuate its contrasts, the Maison has designed three rings and three bangles that combine the robustness of titanium and the power of the diamond. And because all Valérie Messika's creations focus on lightness, not a single piece of jewelry weighs more than a few grams. The principle of the liberated diamond naturally forms an integral part of these creations, presented in three essential finishes that will complement men's looks every day.
