

Jewelry accessories for eternity

Al Coro combines in its new line "Palladio" the shapeliness of the Renaissance with a modern design language. As a symbol of Mediterranean light-heartedness, feminine elegance and elegant refinement the Italian jewelry manufacture has created enchanting pieces of jewelry for self-assured women.

Inspired by its home town Vicenza, Al Coro has created a collection which combines harmonious shapes with highest goldsmithery. Its name Palladio recalls northern Italy's most important architect of the Renaissance and also contains the Italian term "Palla", the sphere, which can be found in the new line as a defining element. In the necklaces of the filigree pendants the little spheres made of 18-carat gold combine in harmonious ornaments such as the symbol of infinity or little blossoms. The collection is topped off with two charming ring creations with sparkling pavés which brilliantly line the noble circle of spheres. In these masterful creations Mediterranean light-heartedness combines with expressive design to form a luxuriously lively collection.

All these creations have a harmony of expressive design, refined craftsmanship and Italian sense of life which show off Al Coro's distinctive mark.

The brand, headquartered in Germany, has its origins in the 70s in Vincenza, the jewelry metropolis of Italy. Since then, Al Coro has spread into the international market and is successfully represented in 17 European countries. The Al Coro Team creates enticing, timeless designs with voluptuous, feminine shapes in-house. The designs and the realization are in equal parts marked by the Italian attitude towards life, a deep passion for craftsmanship, and long-standing experience. With Al Coro jewelry, women emphasize their independence, their individuality and their femininity. Since autumn 2015, Al Coro is presenting their entire world of jewelry in their first mono-brand boutique in Düsseldorf, Germany.
